ENVIRONMENTAL GROUP POLICY

The family-owned MEILLER company, founded in 1850, can look back on a long tradition. From the very beginning, MEILLER has set itself the goal of developing innovative and sustainable products with high customer value for the construction and waste management industries.

Through the manufacture and distribution of tipper bodies and tipper trailers, the globally proven MEILLER hydraulics, as well as high-quality elevator doors, MEILLER has established itself as a global market leader.

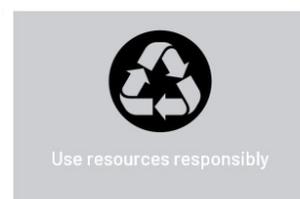

As a global company, we have a responsibility to manufacture environmentally friendly products and operate in an environmentally conscious manner. Our commitment to environmental protection, with concrete measures at all our locations, is part of our ecological responsibility.

MEILLER strives to make an active contribution to protecting the environment through the following principles:

ENVIRONMENTAL PRINCIPLES

To firmly embed these principles into our organization, the following concrete commitments apply to us:

To meet our high expectations regarding environmental protection and occupational health and safety, we provide the necessary resources at all our sites and assign clear responsibilities to every level of the organization.

We are working towards defining and implementing measures across our organisation when these measures have proven to be best-practice in terms of environmental protection and cost-benefit under comparable conditions.

We comply with all applicable legal standards and strive to exceed them wherever possible.

We require our suppliers and business partners to comply with environmental standards that are at least equivalent to our own and encourage them to consider eco-friendly and energy-efficient products and services.

We aim to reduce our corporate carbon footprint and to conserve natural resources by continuously enhancing the efficiency of our processes and improving the sustainability of our products at every stage of development.

We always operate with environmental protection in mind. Guided by our core corporate values, as outlined in our Code of Conduct, we promote environmentally and safety-conscious behavior among all employees.

To achieve our environmental goals, we continuously reduce our energy and water consumption.
